Sunol Glen measure passes

Voters approve SRV, VCSD tax increases

Led by a strong San Ramon "yes" vote, Valley Community Services District voters barely passed a 39 cent tax rate increase yesterday, joining the San Ramon Valley School District and the Sunol School District in the winners' circle.

The final VCSD tally was 1,327 yes, 1,287 no with over 1,000 of the yes votes coming from the five San Ramon precincts.

The success of the VCSD tax rate increase — which will go for additions to California High School, a new intermediate school and renovations at San Ramon High School — may have indirectly led to the success of the VCSD measure.

More than 1,800 voters turned out in five San Ramon precincts, while only 970 showed up at the polls in Dublin. Six hundred and fifty-five of the Dublin voters were against the parks and recreation proposal, while 315 voted in favor.

In the San Ramon school district, voters approved the 39 cent tax rate increase by a solid margin. With 25 of 26 precincts reporting, the count was 3,969 yes and 3,285 no. The measure led from the beginning counting of the absentee ballots and was never in serious danger of defeat.

The goal of the VCSD 39 cent tax rate measure was to develop 47 acres of parks on three sites and also keep the aquatics program out of the red.

Presently, the Dublin Sports Ground, Athan Downs and Boone Acres all are undeveloped and the swimming program at the Valley Community Swim Center and the San Ramon Olympic Pool is losing money.

Last year, the district only supported a swimming program at one pool, so aquatics is expected to be much more expensive this time around.

Plans drawn up before the election called for the 22 acre Dublin Sports Ground to hold several Little League diamonds, soccer fields and softball fields along with multi-use open space area. Athan Downs, a 20 acre complex located at Montevideo Drive and Interstate 680, was designed to be a similar setup, while the 5 acre Boone Acres was drawn up as open space and picnic areas.

VCSD once before attempted to pass a parks and recreation measure, but it was soundly defeated.

The school district, too, was back for another try after failing twice in the past 15 months.

All three measures involved construction and renovation of schools within the district, but yesterday's proposal incorporated a new "lease-purchase" clause to avoid the necessity for a two-thirds majority.

Briefly, the lease-purchase option allows a school district to set up a non-profit corporation that sells bonds to raise money. The corporation then erects the buildings and the district buys the property back from the corporation over a long period of time and then the corporation is dissolved.

The SRVUSD plan was designed to build an intermediate school on Pine Valley Road that would eventually make California High School students all ninth graders and above. Also, more facilities at Cal High were included.

The third major project was the renovation of parts of San Ramon High School, which contains buildings that date back to 1938.

SUNOL — Voters in the small Sunol Glen School District yesterday approved a 43 cent hike in their taxes 174 to 63 which raises the tax rate from $2.07 to $2.50 per $100 assessed valuation.

School Superintendent - Principal George Bury told the Times last night that he was extremely pleased with the support given to the finance measure. "I felt there was enough votes favoring the increase but was a little worried as to whether they would cast their ballots," Bury said. There were 390 registered voters in the district.

Tuesday's tax revenue increase measure was the first one since 1956 for the one-school Sunol Glen School District.

Eight lanes-six paved in pact

Proponents claim win as I-580 suit is settled

SAN FRANCISCO — Proponents of an eight lane highway claim the real winners in an out - of - court settlement announced Tuesday which will allow the widening of Interstate 580 to proceed are the commuters who must travel that route.

The Sierra Club, which filed an eleventh hour suit to block that long awaited widening, may have won a small victory in that the full eight lanes will not be constructed immediately.

The 10.3 mile widening, however, will be designed for a full eight lanes, although only six will be paved east of Crow Canyon Road.

The agreement, which was announced Tuesday at a San Francisco press conference, has not yet been signed, but representatives of the Sierra Club and state and federal governments said all parties concerned were in accord. The actual signing will probably take place later this week.

The compromise agreement calls for construction of an "operational six lane freeway" from Foothill Road in Pleasanton to Crow Canyon Road in Castro Valley and a standard eight - lane freeway from Crow Canyon Road to the hook-up with the MacArthur Freeway.

Two of the lanes will be reserved for bus and carpool traffic from 6 a.m. Monday until 6 p.m. Friday and will be open to all vehicle use over the weekends.

A truck climbing lane will be constructed westbound from Foothill Road to the summit of the Dublin grade and a mass transit median is also provided.

Bids for the $36 million first phase of the project will be opened today and construction is expected to begin in mid-July.

That phase will cover the six-mile stretch from Foothill Road to Eden Canyon Road, and will include the interchange at Foothill Road.

That section is expected to be completed in three years and the full 10-mile stretch is scheduled for a 1983 completion.

One of the terms of the agreement announced Tuesday is the state can only proceed with paving the additional two lanes east of Crow Canyon Road if it files a supplemental Environmental Impact Statement and holds public hearings.

Sierra Club attorney Charles Chalmers said the Sierra Club considered the settlement "acceptable."

A petition by Operating Engineers Local 3 to intervene in the suit filed by the Sierra Club was denied Tuesday by District Court Judge Alfonso Zirpoli.

While the possibility of further litigation exists, it is unlikely the labor unions will be interested in further delaying a project that will mean hundreds of construction jobs.

Washington, D.C. visit

Students see govt 'Closeup'

While several felt the federal government labyrinth was unresponsive, fortified by the same red tape buffer that most of us have run into at one time or another, the great majority of students taking part in the Closeup program earlier this month came away with a respect for the individuals and institutions they visited while in Washington, D.C.

In addition to the large group from Foothill High School, led by teacher Gary Poulos, ten attended from Livermore High School, two from Dublin and four from Amador Valley. Going along with the valley contingent were teachers Skip Mohatt (Amador), Herbert Bryant (Dublin) and Tom Harmon (Livermore).

Particularly enthusiastic about their experiences were Livermore students Page Sexton, Diane Word, Vince Farfan, Dennis Gleason, Doralene Janssen, Cindy Harmon, Kathy Davidson, Paul Lewis, Marty Vandermolen and Ken Foote.

Page was particularly impressed by the helpfullness of the Closeup staff, madeup primarily of men and women in their early twenties. She also enjoyed the brief time spent in the Senate chamber where she saw Sen. Edward Kennedy and Rep. Paul McCloskey.

"Just to see them do their job was worth the trip," enthused Dennis. Diane, however, was disappointed at the presentation made by a woman at the Pentagon and by the vastness of the structure.

As the title of the program indicates, students from throughout the country were given an opportunity to speak with representatives of various government offices, question individual Senators and Representatives when available, visit the Senate and House chambers, State Department, Pentagon, and visit the famous landmarks of Washington, D.C., such as the Lincoln Memorial and Smithsonian Institute.

All of the Livermore group admired the give and take, the balance of opinions from liberal to conservative presented them at most of the meetings and presentations....with the exception of the Pentagon.

Amador students were equally unimpressed with the presentation at the Pentagon, particularly a Lieut. Col. who apparently "briefed" the students non-stop on the dangers of falling behind the Soviet Union in the arms race.

Students came away unconvinced by the idea that there was only one route to international harmony....that being through an armaments race as paraphrased by the Pentagon representative.

The Livermore group, part of 250 Bay Area high schoolers, also visited the Supreme Court, Arlington National Cemetery and the Iwo Jima Flag-Raising Memorial.

Diane, while noting how some government functionaries "talked over our heads or 'down' at us," was impressed by the way Sen. Hubert Humphrey went out of his way to speak with Closeup students.

Both Dennis and Vince felt they didn't realize what they had learned until they returned to Livermore. "It's truly a living history book," Dennis contended.

Like their Amador contemporaries, most of the Livermore preps felt they got some straight and precise answers from Rep. Fortney Stark, who represents the valley. Page asked Rep. Don Ed-

Rick Barry must pass fair parade

Rick Barry would love to do it, "especially if I could ride a horse," but unfortunately the June 29 scheduled date for the Alameda County Fair Parade conflicts with a prior Barry commitment to be in Indiana that weekend.

The offer to the Warrior basketball star was initiated by the Pleasanton Jaycees, and extended by Chan Henderson, manager of the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce.

"I was amazed, and maybe even shocked, when Rick returned my call personally," Henderson reports. "He was most cordial, and even enthusiastic about serving as parade marshal. He said if I could provide him with a horse, then the deal was on."

But the conflict with Barry's appointment in Indiana for another public appearance will keep the nation's best known basketball player from his valley debut.

'Youth Job Crisis' attacked by council

LIVERMORE - Mindful of the "long hot summer" ahead, city officials met Friday morning to organize an attack on the "Youth Job Crisis."

Some seven members spanning the city council, Livermore Unified School District, Livermore Area Recreation and Park District, the Chamber of Commerce, National Alliance of Businessmen and city staff personnel met to plan the Jun. 8 - 14 "Youth Job Crisis Week."

The program stems from last week's city council resolution by councilwoman Helen Tirsell following elimination of 26 student summer jobs from the city's budget.

Under the crisis program, volunteers will "blitz" city businesses soliciting jobs and/or financial donations. Money in lieu of job openings will be needed to cover operating costs, explained NAB representative Dick Piepenburg: telephone lines — the phone company is precluded from donating services, although some employes have volunteered for the three-day "blitz" — printing costs and miscellaneous expenses.

While the volunteers are soliciting openings, youths may pick up job applications from City Hall, 2250 First St., the Livermore Unified School District, 685 Las Positas Blvd, LARPD Eighth and H Sts., or any city fire station: 951 Rincon Ave., 2365 First St., 1389 Bluebell Drive.

Applications for jobs must be submitted by Jun. 16, officials said.

Chamber spokesman John Strong already has secured 14 telephone volunteers, and LUSD representative Kay Honodel will coordinate applicants with available positions.

Job categories vary from businesses — car washers, janitorial services, bus boy/girl, waitreess/waiter, service station attendant, office aide and farm help — to private employment with local residents: house painting, moving, baby sitting, pet sitting/walking and yard work.

While businesses are being solicited actively, officials welcome volunter job offerings from private citizens calling city hall at 447-2100.

A similar program in Hayward last summer filled 26 percent of the 152 job pledges, according to Piepenburg, who added state employment officials considered that figure very good for a first year effort.

Tirsell "recognize(s) that we're starting late," and emphasizes that this year will be a pilot program "to get things started for next year."

That doesn't mean the committee won't be charging ahead to "scare up" homeowners and businesses "who want things done," Pipenburg added.

Any "extra" job openings will be filed with LARPD spokeswoman Dee Manning, and fed through the Senior Citizens' teen employment program.

Insurance war hits county

Malpractice problems are not limited to hospitals, the Alameda County Board of Supervisors learned yesterday.

County Administrator Loren Enoch reported that the county's malpractice and liability insurance had been cancelled, and that he didn't know exactly how much more new coverage was going to ocst.

The previous package cost the county $750,000 a year in premiums. Malpractice insurance alone, Enoch reported, will cost $1,017,000 and there is a $10 million limit for claims.

Figures are not in yet for liability insurance but it is plain that Alameda County will be spending a lot more on insurance in 1975-76.

Supervisors also heard two more speakers on conditions at Santa Rita prison and surprisingly, Luke Hillyard of the American Friends Service Committee did not advocate spending lots of money to rectify the problem.

Hillyard's contention was that the mental health problems at Santa Rita are not so much a function of the prison but of the fact that the sheriff can't say no.

In other words. hospitals and community health groups can refuse to treat someone for a variety of reasons, while the sheriff's department has no choice but to lock the man up.

Hillyard suggested that a staff person be placed at Highland Hospital that police and sheriff's deputies could consult when they bring in a prisoner they feel needs mental health care. Presently, no one deals with the problem directly, according to Hillyard, and the prisoners are normally taken to Santa Rita, where things can only get worse.

Frank Kroncke, also of the American Friends Service Committee, felt that an overseeing agency with actual power to accomplish objectives in mental health should be set up within the county. He believed that putting people in cages, to use his term, was not a way of solving the problem.

Hillyard stated "I don't think $750,000 for a 15 bed in-patient service at Santa Rita is a wise expenditure. We should not, by default, focus our solutions on Santa Rita."

Foothill Road residential plan goes to city council

PLEASANTON - A parcel of land that was once the center of a referendum action will be back in the news next month with a General Plan amendment to be heard by the city council.

The 19 acres at Bernal and Foothill roads was first planned for a retail and office center, to include some high density residential. The voters forced city rejection of that plan, however, and the council later indicated nothing less than total residential would be acceptable.

Dewitt Wilson is the developer of record who is now seeking approval for some 50 residential lots within those 19 acres. That proposal has cleared the planning commission insofar as a General Plan amendment goes, and the GP change now comes before the city council at a June 9 public hearing.

Actual start on development "is still well down the road" according to city spokesmen, including requirement for a full environmental impact report and a detailed subdivision plan.

wards, whose home district includes San Jose and parts of Southern Alameda County, about nursing homes and felt his response was evasive. Added Dennis, "You learned by the end of the week that you had to ask a direct question in hopes of getting a direct answer."

"It was exciting being there while so many things were happening," noted Vince, in recalling that the pirating of the U.S. merchant ship Mayaguez occurred while they were in the Nation's capital.

Barbara Follenfant and Karen Knowles, both juniors, were the Dublin High students participating in Closeup.

Barbara also felt that the visit and presentation made at the Pentagon was disappointing. "He gave us the feeling we were being talked down to. It seemed like their were reminders everywhere that we couldn't take pictures. All those signs and the bigness of the Pentagon sort of made it de-personalized."

The incoming president of Juniorettes, a campus affiliate of the Junior Women's Club, also said the State Department speaker was very nervous. Barbara also spoke with representatives in the office of Ohio Congressman Charles Vanik.

"We got a personalized tour of the Supreme Court. It's more like a huge meeting room than a courtroom. We also got to go upstairs to the Supreme Court library.

The Dublin duo, along with social studies department head Bryant, also visited the Senate chamber and came in during the middle of a filibuster." Bryant adds that the two were able to sit on the floor of the House while Rep. Phillip Burton of San Francisco was talking.

Barbara became aware of the gulf between government and citizens and its corollary at the level of student government and student body. "I became awareof how strange it seemed to come clear across country to see and meet representatives who live and represent areas only a few miles away.

Biggest concern of many of the students is that government seems to be out of touch with the people.

The Dublin students also saw, albeit for a moment, Sen. Alan Cranston, Sen. Robert Dole and Rep. Leo Ryan from San Francisco.

Both Barbara and Karen are active in not only Juniorettes but international Relations (like a model United Nations) and Math Club. In addition, Barbara, is a member of the VCSD Parks and Recreation Citizens Advisory Committee.

Barbara hopes to apply what she learned to a community awareness project she is considering for next school year. "Going to Washington has made me more aware of issues," she concluded.

Mark had perhaps the most unique experiences of any who journeyed east from the valley. In addition to sitting on the floor of the House, gaining some political insight from Rep. Fortney Stark and watching the House Ways and Means Committee in action, Mark met Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, had him autograph an item in Mark's wallet, gave him a "soul" handshake and then patted the bemused Vice President on the back....as Secret Service types hovered about.

Mark, though only a soophomore, has his sights set on a career in politics."What I saw was low attendance in the House which was also the case in the Senate. They would file in when a vote was called."

Regarding his meeting with Rep. Stark, Mark said they discussed foreign aid in general and how it can help pave the way for trade. I came away feeling that people in the valley are denied the true meaning of what is going on.

"We sat in on seminars, informal meetings with Sen. Don Riegel, Sen. Alan Cranston and ABC commentator Sam Donaldson, and were able to see them in their own element," Mark added.

Joyce said she was more interested in foreign affairs and had a chance to speak with Sen. Ryan of the foreign affairs panel. "I talked with him for about a half hour and he was very honest. He came across as 'people' and not a politician."

While Mark was very impressed with Rep. Stark, Joyce said she couldn't agree. They also talked with Cranston, Dole, Burton and McCloskey.

"The only thing that hit me negative," stated Joyce, "was the Pentagon. We all went in and sat in the auditorium for a PR-type meeting. A Lieut. Col. showed a film that dealt with the 'aura of detente'. It dealt with the U.S. versus Russia and how we were way behind in everything." She was also less than enthused with a Karen Keesling, a White House liaison officer, who she felt went over the same ground covered by a Mr. Baroody the night before....all without making any definitive statements according to Joyce.

Mark and Joyce, while agreeing that Stark more than most others was "incredibly open," had varying comments on the layout and residents of the District of Columbia.

"We went through slums even when going from our hotel to federal buildings," Joyce said.

Foothill verdict due today

County to rule on signs

A request to put up two directional tract signs on Foothill Drive opposite Muirwood Drive and Stoneridge Drive will be ruled on by the Alameda County Zoning Administrator today at 1:30 p.m. in Hayward.

Roy Moller, and Adway Signs are asking Zoning Administrator Dick Flynn for a conditional use permit that would allow construction of the signs in an agriculturally - zoned area. Moller owns the property at 5710 Foothill Road.

Margorie Ruth Koller is also asking a conditional use permit of Flynn, as she wants to use a mobile home as temporary living quarters for farm workers. Eventually she would like to build permanent dwellings for the workers on her land on Tassajara Road.

The property is zoned agricultural and is approximately one mile north of the intersection of Tassajara Road and Interstate 580.

Lynn Bowers is also asking for a conditional use permit for occupancy of a mobile home, but only on a temporary basis. Bowers wants the permit so that a home can be built on his agriculturally - zoned land at 10843 Foothill Boulevard near Sunol.

James L. Martin and Howard Garvin are requesting a variance from Flynn that would allow them to build a home on a two acre lot on Cull Canyon Road. The land is zoned agricultural, which allows one home only on 100 acre plots of land.

Park bond issue tonight

PLEASANTON — Park and Recreation commissioners will analyze results of this year's census update at tonight's meeting in Pleasanton Justice Court in an attempt to evaluate the citizens' views on a parks bond issue.

In addition to the traditional census input, residents also were asked if they would support a bond issue to develop completely all of park land now owned by the city. Some 39 per cent responding favorably to the question, with 16 per cent saying no and 18 per cent with "no opinion."

Faced with tight budget restrictions for the next few years, city officials have considered offering a bond issue to complete several undeveloped and partially developed sites.

Commissioners also will receive a staff report on capital improvement progress, closely linked to the idea of the bond issue, an evaluation of the Racquet Club Tennis Tournament and an economic analysis of the general plan.

Lions install new officers

Maury Perstein, Executive Director of the Lions Eye Foundation of California and Nevada, installed the following new officers for the Lions Club: Bill Holden, president; Ben Fernandez, first vice president; Merle Telford, second vice president; Chan Henderson, secretary — Treasurer; Dick Daniels, tail twister; Frank Capilla, Lion tamer and John Goodman, past president.

Directors include: John Mullins, Gene O'Brien, Tony Macchiano, Mike Gallagher, Brent Lovell and Sid Leon.

Two newest members installed in the Pleasanton Club are Doug Divine and Duncan McDowell. This brings the total membership of the Lions to 90, one of the largest clubs in the District.

Saturday, May 31, the Lions annual Calf Project Barbecue will be held at the Alameda County Fairgrounds beginning with cocktails at 6:30 p m.

Tickets at $6 per person may be obtained by calling 846—3467 or at the barbecue.

Bay parks host 250,000

The strike-plagued East Bay Regional Parks still managed to host a quarter of a million visitors over the Memorial Day weekend, despite accumulated garbage and other evidences of that strike, now in its 55th day.

Shadow Cliffs park in the Livermore-Pleasanton area was not among thay weekend attractions, however. The valley aquatic facility remains closed due to seasonal contamination detected in the water. That park's schedule for this upcoming weekend "is still undetermined," a park district spokesman says.

Instances of park visitors "pitching in" to help clean up the parks and thus make possible their continued operation over the weekend were reported. Also in evidence was some vandalism, a pattern which has, prevailed throughout the strike by Local 2428 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. Some members of that union were reported launching their own "back to work" movement this week.

The strike talks were deadlocked at week's end, despite the entry of a state conciliator and an offer by the park district to make "a major revision in its position." That offer was apparently rejected by the union.

Sierra Club rep speaks

DUBLIN — Fresh from settlement of the Sierra Club — I-580 widening suit, Sierra Club attorney Charles Chalmers will address this Thursday's San Ramon-Amador Valley Exchange Club luncheon.

State and federal officials agreed last Monday to an out-of-court settlement of the controversial suit which reduced the widening from eight lanes to six.

The club filed suit April 15 in an attempt to halt contract awarding originally scheduled for last Wednesday.

In last week's address to the Dublin Chamber of Commerce, Valley Assemblyman Floyd Mori said the out-of-court settlement was the strategy of the governor's office to avoid costly, time-consuming litigation.

Had the suit gone to court, the estimated $110 million financing might have been shifted to other proposed freeway construction, Mori said.

Those wishing to attend the luncheon should contact Bill Foster, 828-7111, or Page Binkley, 829-0643.

June 20 opening

'Legend of Jazz' starts Chabot summer

Chabot College will present a series of summer concerts and short courses beginning June 20 with a program by the "Legends of Jazz" and ending late in August with performances of "The Music Man" in observance of the nation's bicentennial.

The concert series also includes Ragtime Pianist Max Morath, June 27 - 28 - 29; High Country Blue Grass Band, July 11; Helen Stephens Voices of Christ in a program of gospel music, July 18; Sacred Cantata, July 12 - 19 - 26; Bill Schustik, American folk singer, July 25; Symphonic Band Concert, August 1; Country - Western Music Entertainer Tex Williams, August 2; and "The Music Man," August 21 - 23, and 28 - 30.

A series of short courses will run concurrently with each festival attraction. For instance, the "Sounds of New Orleans" short course will coincide with the "Legends of Jazz" appearance on June 20. Members of the jazz group will visit with students on the day of their scheduled concert. This same arrangement applies to all of the short courses and programs scheduled during the summer festival.

Individuals enrolled in one or more courses may purchase a season ticket to the Bicentennial programs at a student rate of $14.92 each. Adult season tickets are available at $17.76 each. Checks may be sent to the Chabot College Summer Festival, Office of Community Sercvices, 25555 Hesperian Boulevard, Hayward, CA 94545.

Chabot College has been designated as a National Bicentennial College by the American Revolution Becentennial Administration in Washington, D.C.

CTA asks Brown to save schools

BURLINGAME — The California Teachers Association has urged Gov. Brown to solve the "disastrous school finance problem" or call a special legislative session to prevent financial collapse of many districts.

CTA President Bryan Stevens said hundreds of school districts are plagued by inflation and face financial crisis without state aid.

Stevens urged passage of Senate Bill 220, which would provide $125 million in new state funds to help school districts fight inflation.

The president of the 145,000 member group said the problem of school financing is as important as the housing, malpractice, and farm labor situations assigned top priority by the governor.

He said a study by the California School Boards Association shows that 46 districts already are broke, and many others will have no cash reserves next year.

"Cutbacks now in effect or being planned will short-change the education of hundreds of thousands of children," Stevens said. "That's ironic and unfair. For we are expecting our children to grow into responsible, productive citizens while scrimping on the academic, cultural and social programs they must have in school to achieve these high expectations."

'Day on Green 2' scheduled

The Pleasanton Recreation Department is sponsoring an excursion to "Day on the Green No. 2" on June 29 featuring the Doobie Brothers and the Eagles.

Transportation by bus and one ticket are included in the $8 price. All persons purchasing tickets are expected to ride on the bus and will be required to submit a parent-signed permission slip.

A limited number of tickets are available at the West Wind Youth Center, 455 Black Ave. All persons interested are encouraged to get their tickets early.

Jaycees initiate a new term with pranks, plaudits

Amid the gaiety and horseplay which have become a trademark of the youthful organization, officers of the Livermore Jaycees and Livermore Jaycee Wives were installed at a holiday dinner-dance at Castlewood Country Club.

Outoing president Ken Johnson passed the gavel to successor Pat O'Keefe, who recently served as the chapter's state director. Pat and his wife Tricia are realtors with Allied Brokers in Livermore and have two sons, Mike and Greg.

Pat's new slate consists of Gib Souza and Dan Brown, vice-presidents; Murray Day, secretary; Jack Graham, treasurer; and Ed English, state director. New board members are Pete Paculba, Tyler Gillette, Jerry Forsberg, Mike Caraveo and John Arguello.

Ken Johnson was honored as "Outstanding Jaycee of the Year." He has been a chapter member since 1969. The Al Rollins Memorial award for the outstanding first-year member was given to college student Tyler Gillette.

Although equal photo coverage for the women was thwarted by mechnical difficulties, the Livermore Jaycee Wives were well-represented at the event. Marsha Gillette became president for the new term, with Kathie Souza and Pat Carter, vice-presidents; Sandy Schultz, secretary; and Shelley Graham, treasurer.

Marsha, who has served as publicity chairman and secretary of the chapter, is the wife of outgoing vice-president Ron Gillette. They have two children, Deena and Ronnie.

Taking a bow as "Jaycee Wife of the Year" was Amy Enos. Roberta Arguello was honored as the outstanding first-year member.

JAYCEE OF THE YEAR

Meet the Juniors

Young women interested in community service are invited to become acquainted with the membership and the objectives of the Livermore Junior Women's Club at an 8 o'clock preview night Thursday at the community room of State Savings and Loan Association in Livermore.

The club is open to women between the ages of 18 and 35 years. For further information contact Maggie Smaltz, membership chairman, at 447-9392

Series on rape

A three-part television series on the subject of rape begins tonight on KPIX-TV Channel 5. The series will be aired Wednesday through Friday at 6 and 11 p.m. as part of the station's look at today's changing women during "Impact: Women's Week."

Brantley's celebrate 50 years of marriage

Chuck and Lucille Brantley of Rose Avenue celebrated 50 years of marriage on Memorial Day this week, with best wishes extended to the long-time Pleasanton residents by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Al Green of Bakersfield, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brantley of Inglewood, Royce Brantley of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Mac MacDougal of Fresno.

The couple boasts 16 grandchildren.

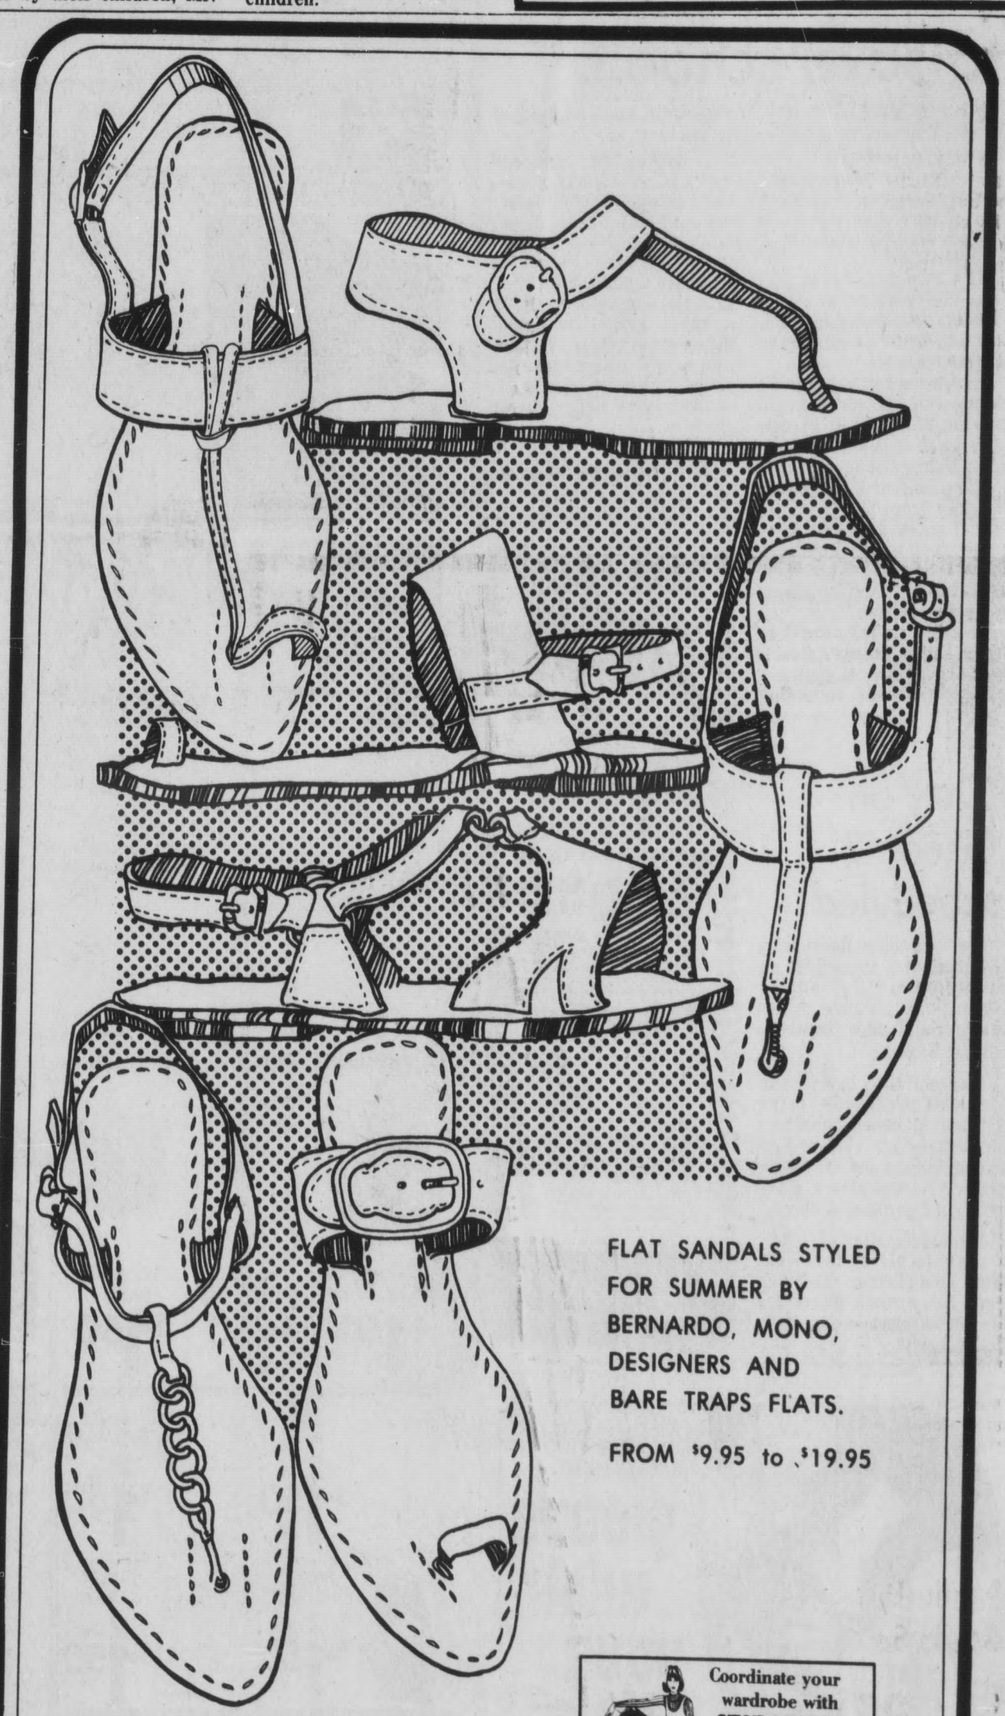

Past President Bill Archer officially seals the fate of the outgoing president as the 'TP' is readied to quench the sympathetic sobs of Jaycees who seem to be laughing in spite of it all.

The unflagging 'grin-and-bear-it' spirit of Ken Johnson was very much in evidence as the Livermore Jaycees produced the proverbial chicken (again!) as a token of their esteem and gratitude for his past service.

Assembley votes to slap lid on malpractice insurance rages

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly voted overwhemlingly Tuesday to slap a temporary lid on malpractice insurance rates without any assurance the bill would get striking doctors back into operating rooms.

And Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. told reporters that "doctors are provoking a crisis" as the doctors' walkout spread in Santa Barbara, Ventura, San Diego and Stanislaus counties.

The Democratic governor added that doctors "do have an opportunity now" to go back to work, rather than wait indefinitely before the malpractice system is overhauled as they demand.

The debate over the bill by Assemblyman Robert McLennan was often heated, with harsh criticism of the doctors who continue to treat only emergency cases because of skyrocketing insurance rates.

"They are continuing an outrageous strike and (showing) a callous disregard for the public," said Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose.

McLennan, a Republican from Downey, admitted his bill has problems, but said it is needed to assure "affordable insurance is available to physicians whose policies have expired."

The bill would set up an insurance pool that would write the insurance for the rest of this year at no more than 50 per cent above last year's rates. Doctors would be assessed to make up any losses suffered by the pool.

Asked if the doctors would go back to work on passage of his bill, McLennan, the Legislature's only physician, said:

"I wish I could give you that assurance (but) that would be pure speculation...I have not been assured by anyone that this would stop the walkout."

The Assembly approved the bill 62-3, sending it to the Senate.

The walkout began May 1 in Northern California when Argonaut Insurance Co. announce rate increases of up to 324 per cent.

The slowdown spread statewide as some doctors joined in sympathy with their colleagues and others received notices of huge rate increases.

An unspecified number of doctors at three Santa Barbara hospitals joined the walkout Tuesday.

Non-emergency surgery halted at three San Diego hospitals as the refusal of about onethird of the city's anesthesiologists to perform elective surgery took effect.

Eight hospitals in Ventura County halted most elective surgery as many doctors joined the slowdown.

'Glass pockets' for public servants?

Contributed by Common Cause

A recent Chicago Tribune story asked, "Who owns stock in at least two public utility companies, 15 banks, four major oil companies, several airlines, the phone company, three natural gas firms and holds the deed to one Oklahoma oil well? The answer: members of the House Ways and Means Committee.

A Congressional Quarterly survey of financial reports filed by Representatives on their 1973 income showed that 113 Representatives had interests in banks, 70 had interests in real estate, 66 reported receiving more than $1,000 from their law practices, and 66 reported holdings in the top 100 defense contractors firms.

The financial information filed by the Representatives is limited, and details of most business transactions are kept secret. However, neither members of the Senate nor the Executive Branch are required to make public even such limited financial data.

A recent report by the Government Accounting Office noted that 42 employees of the U.S. Geological Survey, the agency which determines the value of natural resources for federal leasing, had financial interests which conflicted with their official duties. The study revealed that several USGS employees had interests in mining companies.

Most sources of outside income are not illegal. However, there is the danger that public officials could be caught in a genuine conflict between the possibility of private gain and their duty to serve the public interest.

In 1974 then-Representative Bertram Podell (D-N.Y.) was convicted of representing a client of his law firm (Florida Atlantic Airlines) before a federal agency (the Civil Aeronautics Board) while still a Congressman. Federal law prohibits any federal official from representing a client before a federal agency or belonging to a law firm which does the same.

A recent poll commissioned by the Republican National Committee showed that 64% of the 2,000 persons surveyed believed that government officials run the government for the benefit of a few special interests, not for the common good.

"A public that has more confidence in its trash collectors than in its elected officials (Lou Harris poll, September, 1973) won't be satisfied with generalized codes of ethics for officials and confidential disclosure of financial holdings," Common Cause Chairman John Gardner has said.

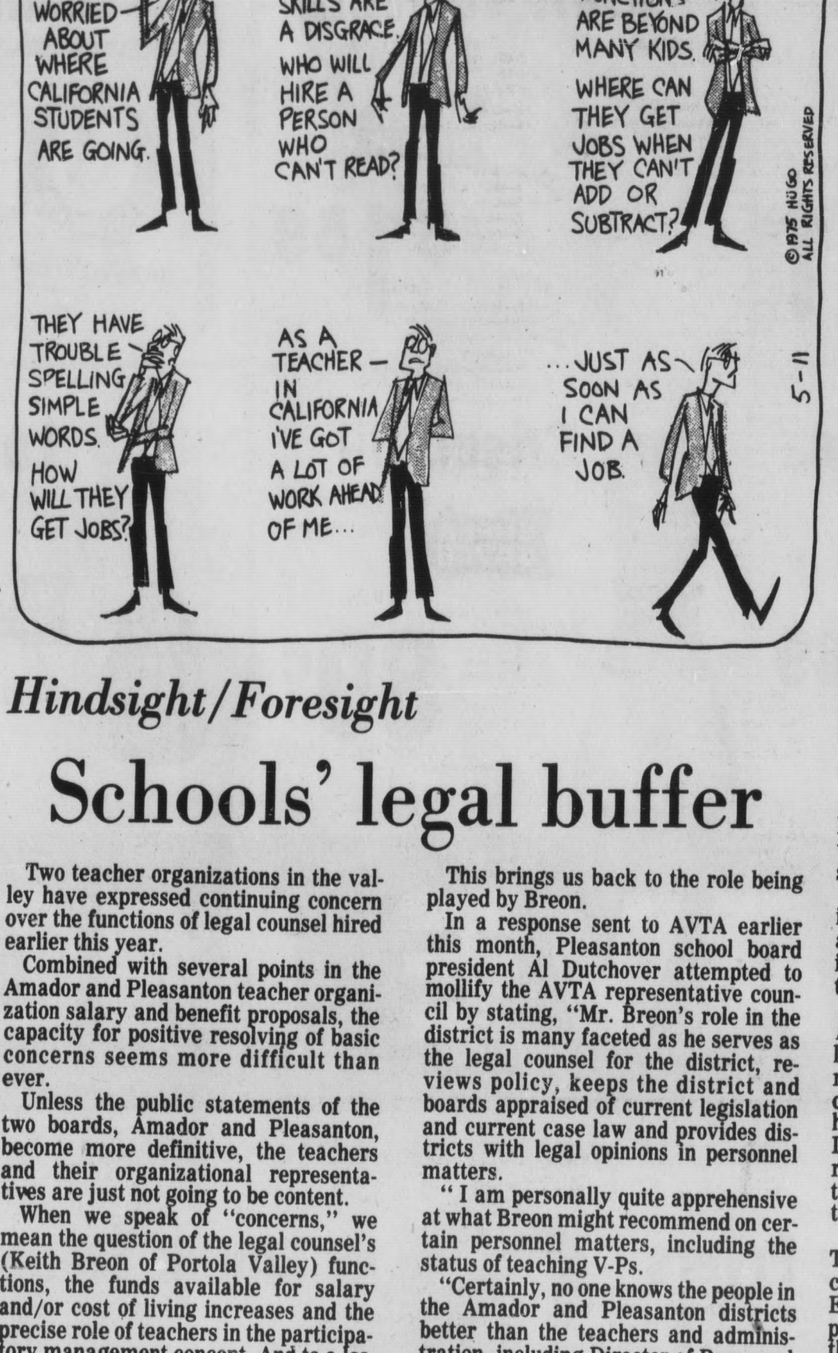

"Political leaders must disclose publicly their financial holdings and activities and must discipline themselves with respect to potential conflicts of interest. That is why we advocate 'glass pockets' legislation," he explained.

In the fall of 1974, Common Cause asked all candidates for Congress: "Will you vote for legislation requiring annual, public disclosure of financial holdings by members of Congress and their professional staff, and by high officials of the Executive and Judicial Branches of government?"

In the 94th Congress, 51 of the 60 responding Senators supported the legislation while 269 of the responding Representatives supported such legislation.

With the public trust in government at such low levels, the public must know if their representatives are voting the public's interest or their own financial interests.

The public must also be assured that Congress is performing its oversight function of the Executive Branch with respect to conflict of interest in executive agencies.

Hindsight/Foresight

Schools' legal buffer

Two teacher organizations in the valley have expressed continuing concern over the functions of legal counsel hired earlier this year.

Combined with several points in the Amador and Pleasanton teacher organization salary and benefit proposals, the capacity for positive resolving of basic concerns seems more difficult than ever.

Unless the public statements of the two boards, Amador and Pleasanton, become more definitive, the teachers and their organizational representatives are just not going to be content.

When we speak of "concerns," we mean the question of the legal counsel's (Keith Breon of Portola Valley) functions, the funds available for salary and/or cost of living increases and the precise role of teachers in the participatory management concept. And to a lesser degree, the Amador Valley Teachers Association is concerned about the disposition of seven persons currently assigned as teaching vice principals. AVTA has recommended that these people be reassigned to the classroom with the "teaching vice-principal" slot abolished.

At the high school level, we already know of one staff member who is going from a part teaching, part publicity role to a full-tile teaching position.

It is apparent that some district office administrators believe that some certificated personnel will have to go into the classroom full-time. Whether this will prove true with the seven teaching vice principals is something else.

The latter is what AVTA wants but one must remember that teaching vice principals are considered as part of "administration," not members of the teachers association and working towards the day when they will be offered a principalship. It is not likely that too many of them will want to go back to full-time classroom teaching....unless AVTA and administration negotiators can find a solution amenable to all.

This brings us back to the role being played by Breon.

In a response sent to AVTA earlier this month, Pleasanton school board president Al Dutchover attempted to mollify the AVTA representative council by stating, "Mr. Breon's role in the district is many faceted as he serves as the legal counsel for the district, reviews policy, keeps the district and boards appraised of current legislation and current case law and provides districts with legal opinions in personnel matters.

" I am personally quite apprehensive at what Breon might recommend on certain personnel matters, including the status of teaching V-Ps.

"Certainly, no one knows the people in the Amador and Pleasanton districts better than the teachers and administration, including Director of Personnel Services Carl Krause. It is our belief that Krause, working in conjunction with administration and teacher representatives, can best prescribe what steps to take."

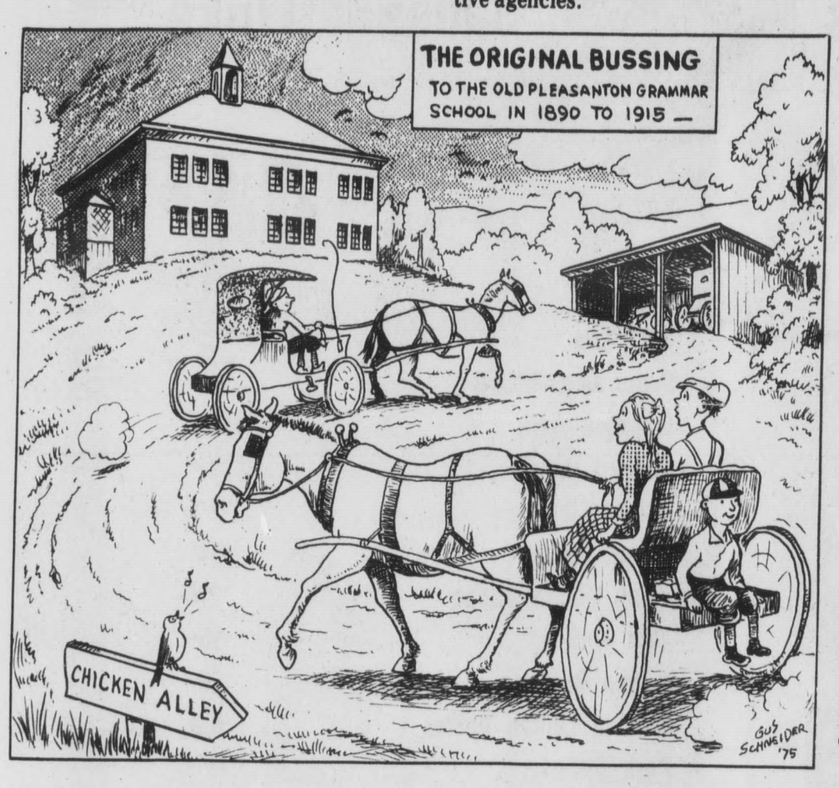

So why a legal counsel in this area?

The letter from the elementary board continues, "The board and the Pleasanton Elementary School District knows that the confidence, credibility and communication that has been established with the AVTA over the years will not be hampered in any way by the board's hiring of Mr. Breon and the mutual respect that we have had in the past will continue. It is hoped that in the future as in the past, that the word 'trust' will continue to be the by-word by which we both operate."

While this tends to be quite reassuring, I suspect that some teacher reps would just as soon opt for more definitive answers and comment to questions and proposals already advanced to the board.

Their is room for more openness here with emphasis on across - the - table discussions unencumbered by legal buffers....where none are necessary.

Letter to the editor

YMCA Career Day

To the Times:
This letter is to extend our sincere thanks to you for being a sponsor for our YMCA Career Day Program. Comments have been very favorable and we feel the events in both Livermore and Dublin were very successful.

However, since we are always looking ahead we are already in the process of upgrading and improving the program for 1976.

If you have any comments, suggestions, or criticisms, we would appreciate your letting us know so that we can take them into consideration in our planning for Career Days next year.

Thank you again for your cooperation and support.

round the town

She is said to trace her roots to the Latin "Maia," a goddess of some note. Before that there was "mag-ya," which — as all of you know — suggests "she who is great."

No matter how you view her, May is something else. The harbinger of summer, the last fling of spring . . . r even winter, if you happen to live in the colder climes. Either way, May is among the calendar's more popular entries. Unless you have hay fever.

AAAAchoo!! God half bless you, May. You should be just so great.

It was on thelast the last day of May that Joan of Arc did her burning act. On the outdoor stage at Rouen, France. As a solo performance, it has never been matched, not in 544 years.

Sixty seven years later, but also in the month of May, Chris Columbus sailed from Spain on his third voyage of the New World. Turns out now that Columbus was no better than sixth in that race across the ocean. Seems like everybody got there first . . . Vikings, Danes, even the Africans. The Russians may have simply walked. Across the Aleutian chain, before they were islands. A pathway linking two continents Columbus took the hard way around.

Americans have taken the hard way, ever since. No faith in the firm path, the easy route. It was in 1883, in May's month, of course, that the good people of Brooklyn saluted their new bridge, and promptly broke into a great panic when reports spread that the blessed thing was about to collapse Six Broolynites perished in the resulting crush.

We are a much more sophisticated lot, these days. Don't have to go sailing across the bloody ocean to convince us the world is not as flat as a stove. Science assures us, without the need for a personal test.

BART is the world's first computerized disaster. But it has not stopped a rapid transition of expensive ideas, and people, for that Bay Area toy. Nor has it curbed the ingenuity of the district's public relations people. And their black sense of humor.

"BART will conduct a full-scale simulated disaster on its southern Alameda line, Saturday, May 31." "Simulated?" Most BART commuters have experienced the real thing. They are hardly going to turn out for a phony disaster. The PR people have blown it this time. Only hope now is to make their May 31 thing a Family Day Disaster . . charge half price . . . have one of the trains run over Joe Alioto as the program's climax. On second thought, that would leave us with TWO Aliotos, both talking at full clip. Forget it.

The good people at Security Pacific Bank have just come out with a new "Community Guide to the Greater East Bay." Loaded with maps and info on public transportation, of all kinds. This valley rates a fat zero, on that scale. We do get a mention on the chapter dealing with "Range of Home Prices." We range right up there with the best of them But not as high as local taxpayers have been led to believe.

Security uses the color code to display local price ranges on dwellings. Light yellow is under $25,000. Darkens up through green ($35,000 to $44,999) and finally peaking out with brown ($60,000 and over).

Oakland is loaded with yellow, touches of green and brown on the hilly f . Very little in between, for us working folk. Piedmont t is a brown, brown haven Not that kind of brown, silly. Just the high-priced brown used by the Security Pacific map makers.

San Leandro and Hayward are primarily dark-yellow towns. The price range starts climbing as you journey south into Fremont, Newark and Union City. (Union City?e)

Now for the really controversial stuff. Whereas Alamo and Danville are great globs of high-priced brown, San Ramon and Dublin are show as middle-class green. Very little housing in the "over $45,000 bracket," or says Security Pacific.

Pleasanton is one great mass of green, with Pleasanton Valley and Castlewood being the only small islands of light brown . . . under $60,000 Livermore is much the same, except for a touch of yellow on the Portola Avenue side, and a splash generous splash of higher-priced brown east of Vasco Road!

But like I say, don't complain to this department. We didn't compile the blessed directory.

We won't likely be around, anyway. Figured on spending the weekend at Yosemite. A great place in which to salute the last days of May. Very little AAAAchoo up there, as I remember. Lots of people though. "Sorry, no room at Yosemite." All the hay fever folk are heading for the high country.

Maybe I'll cruise toward Cull Canyon, instead. The Sequoian Family Nudist Club is having a little gathering. Fran B sent a personal invitation. "Read your column all the time," Fran writes. Obviously a young lady of good taste. Would like to thank her, personally. The wife says, "We're going to Yosemite if we have to spend the night in a tent."

I reason that "If I must catch cold, I would prefer to catch same at the Sequoia Club rally." Fat chance. Looks like May is going to wind up fully clothed. Carrying only the fragrance of other exotic times and places. AAAAAchoo!

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

What ever happened to springtime of 1975?

There was deep snow in Danville during the normally mild month of March. Winter winds over the Livermore —Amador Valley late in April. Rainstorms, notshowers and a chill over the fairways of the San Ramon Golf Course.

We seldom saw the sun until May. Old Sol was taking a prolonged vacation.

Believe me, he has been rejuvenated. Summertime skipped into the soft winds of springtime and seared the hills dull brown over the weekend. They rim the valley like well done toast, the lush green which came with the late rains burned away for another six months.

Early in the morning we turn on the weather station. Take our news directly from Uncle Sam whose nasel voiced broadcaster tells us what to wear through the day.

That is important to the lady of the house. A coat or raincoat or sweater or maybe no wrap at all. Women must know these things. For men the decision is not so tough. The same old shirt and tie with maybe a slightly lighter blazer replacing the heavier coat of winter time.

Leave the raincoat home, my friends, and forget the umbrella. As I write this I have been warned.

"Eighty-eight degrees in Concord," the government weatherman warned.

You can bet your sweet Post Toasties 88 in Concord means 90 in Pleasanton. Perhaps 92 or more in Livermore.

I don't really mind the heat. For the third summer now I am enjoying the luxury of air conditioned working quarters.

There was a time when I climbed the stairs of the Schenone Building and perspired in my cubbyhole while people came and went, fighting over the thermostat.

Today I sit in cool, fluorescent splendor and write about the year we skipped springtime.

Sunday we watched the Golden State Warrior, sipping coffee with sweaty palms while they squeezed their way through a fourth consecutive win over a team they had no right to beat and won the National Basketball Association championship.

Never before in all my life have I watched a professional basketball game from one end to another.

The Warriors are the Silky Sullivans of basketball. The Tommie Smiths of the hardwood court. Folks like teams which come from behind and they loved those rangy Cinderella men who seem to always start behind and always have something left in the stretch.

I was gratified by the Warriors win and even more so by the absence of sulky superstars from the lineups of any of the teams in the finals.

True, Rick Barry is one of the best, but he is an ordinary citizen at heart, not beating the drums for anything except his own pocketbook and the good of his team.

The same is true for Elvin Hayes, who has chosen to retain the name he was born with and the dignity which goes with it.

I am sick of the Bill Waltons and the Abdul-Abull Bull Amars and the rest of the sweaty disciples of change and disruption who grow rich while cursing the society which spawned their wealth.

Basketball, of all games, should be a team proposition, a fact we are reminded of with regularity in the valley where Skip Mohatt of Amador High School so often puts together a smoothly operating high school quintet which plays with precision and always just a little over its head.

I can admire the physical skill of a Lew Alcindor whose Hindu name I cannot spell or remember. Is it Hindu or Muslim? Frankly I neither know or give a damn.

What I do know is that it was nice having a team full of Rick Barry's and Charlie Johnson's and fellows named Wilkes and Mullen winning a national championship from laddies called Hayes and Unseld and a coach named K.C. Jones.

We watched, gratified and drawn to a game which has never appealed to me while the Warriors put on a superior show. Anew fan may have been born Sunday afternoon. Skeeter has always like professional basketball she tells me I am addicted to the high school variety. But my mind is sometimes open and the Warriors may have brought about a change of heart.

We mowed the lawn and did the laundry and ventured out into the summer sun of late May, down Interstate 580 to Livermore and Concannon Vineyards.

"Art in the Vineyards" the event was advertised. Paintings set against a backdrop of semillon grape vines. Bottles of Petit Sirrah, dry grey Reisling and Chenin Blanc on tables between the paintings.

Concannon's Winery is not only one of the oldest in these United States, it is one of the best. On the whole the art was worthy of the vineyard it used for a backdrop.

There was a line of automibiles stretching along Tesla Road so we parked near the winery entrance, thinking ourselves lucky to find a place so close and walked up the dusty path.

We baked under the summer sun while examining turquoise jewelry and stark, welded sculpture. Retreated to the winery and the cool twilight between the giant vats.

Sampled the Chenin Blanc, the Reisling and Gamay Rose. Chatted with Joe Concannon, one of the Valley's finest citizens, then sat on a bench beside the building sipping our wine and enjoying summer. It is nice to know she came at all, if a little early

The way things were going the spring of '75 might have jumped right over into autumn.

For Wednesday, May 28, 1975
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful. You could miscalculate things today. This would deprive you of a goal you're very anxious to realize.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Double-check your sources to make sure information from others is valid. You may be a bit on the gullible side today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your best course again today is to stay at arm's length from situations that are not your direct concern. Your advice will be neither welcome nor needed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Tread softly today in areas where your reputation or image are on the line. A thoughtless move will leave a poor lasting impression.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A task you've been postponing because you thought it would be a snap will be tougher the longer you put it off. Do it now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23- Sept. 22) You're prone to take risks today with things that aren't yours. A friend will be angered if something he values is ruined.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you want your household to run smoothly today, you and your mate will have to decide who the chief honcho is. It's no day for committee rule!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's not like you to make excuses to shirk responsibility, but that's just what you're apt to do today. Watch it!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're still unrealistic regarding how you manage financial resources. Some form of loss is likely unless you change your ways.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A person who's seeking your advice will not be helped if you sugar-coat your words. Tell it to him hard and straight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) The buck stops with you today. If you made a mistake or an oversight, you'll gain respect by admitting it, even though it's difficult.

PISCES (Feb. 20March 20) Though you have a strong craving to buy something new, resisting the urge will make it easier later when payments come due.

Your Birthday
May 28, 1975

You'll play a more meaningful role this year in management of the affairs of others. Substantial rewards will come to you if your job is well done.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The late Willard S. Karn was probably the greatest exponent of lead-directing bidding of all time.

Take today's hand as an example. After North jumped to three spades, Willard decided he was going to play at six. He could have bid six directly. This was back in the early 30s before bidding was at all scientific, but Willard decided that he wanted to insure that West wouldn't open a club. Of course, if West held the ace-king of clubs there would be no way to stop a club lead, but Willard couldn't help that.

Willard could have bid four clubs and then jumped to six spades, but West had played against Willard before and that four-club bid would have been like a red rag to a bull. It would have caused West to go out of his way to lead the suit.

So Willard went the opposite route. He bid diamonds and hearts on the way to the slam. Now our suspicious West wasn't sure of anything except that Willard was ready for a club lead so he opened a diamond.

This gave Willard time to lose the heart finesse but get rid of his losing club. Against a club lead Willard would have had to lose two tricks.

A — Bid four clubs. This hand is not going to produce nine tricks in notrump.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding two clubs your partner has jumped to three clubs over your one spade. What do you do now?

1, 2, 3, 4 and out...

By DAVE WEBER

It could have been declared no contest after Friday night.

As strange and sudden as the sun rising in the west, the media realized that the Warriors were not as one D.C. sportscaster put it, the "worst team ever to reach the finals".

With the game over, a horde of jock journalists massed below the Golden State locker room. Upon a signal from within, the pack swarmed up an antiquated staircase, trod almost exclusively by wrestlers and cowboys before the Ice Follies routed the 3-1 underdog Warriors from their Oakland Arena home, and into the inner sanctum of the club that would soon take its place along side the 1914 Boston Braves as one of sports' legendary miracle teams.

At the door, centers Clifford Ray and George Johnson were backed into corners by the mob and served as a captive reception line, gripping the hands of the nearly endless stream of press reps and well-wishers who filed past.

But while even Steve Bracey, hailed by his teamates as the NBA's "best twelfth man", was interviewed by at least one TV crew, one man drew most of the attention — Rick Barry.

Two days prior to winning an American Motors car he almost certainly will never use (as the series MVP), the Golden Prince held court from the unlikely throne of a folding chair.

Once, Barry leaned too far back and caved in the chair — the first time the Warrior captain has looked foolish since the soon-to-be-forgotten Chicago Shovel Shot.

Unperturbed and, fortunately for Golden State, unhurt, Barry asked a friend for a hand up and returned his attention to the reporters.

Behind the mob of inquisitors, rookie guard Phil Smith was adressing a black reporter with mock formality, "Well, Mister Hayes, I do believe..." Suddenly the atmosphere changed, if only briefy, when tight end turned sports reporter Monty Stickles entered carrying his ever-present KGO emblazoned tape recorder.

Cursing, Stickles surveyed the mob seperating himself and Barry, the most desirable interview subject.

"I cover more god damn sports in a week than all these guys do in a year," he griped over his shoulder, "and now I have to come back when all these jerks are gone."

A wave of laughter swept the room after Stickles departure though no one present, not even Ray, King Yo The Terrible, would relish a confrontation with Stickles, an unabashed roughneck in his NFL days.

No such gaiety prevailed in the Bullets dressing quarters.

Up another series of splintered steps, the Caps superstar froward, Elvin Hayes, sat with his back to the section of rail, garnished with coat hangers, that had served as his locker.

Only one reporter was in sight. KDIA sports director Sam Skinner chatted with a calm Hayes about the Bible.

A recently reaffirmed Christian, Elvin smiled in resignation and quoted passages applicable to the Bullets all-but-hopeless predicament.

Skinner returned the smile and departed saying, "Yeah, I knew there was more going on here than just a basketball game

While his coach, K.C. Jones, leaned transfixed, smoking, against one of the pillars that hold Daly City's most famous barn in place and trainer Bill Ford scurried about checking the credentials of everyone in the room, apparently for wont of anything constructive to do, Hayes demonstrated that Skinner was precise in his estimation of "E".

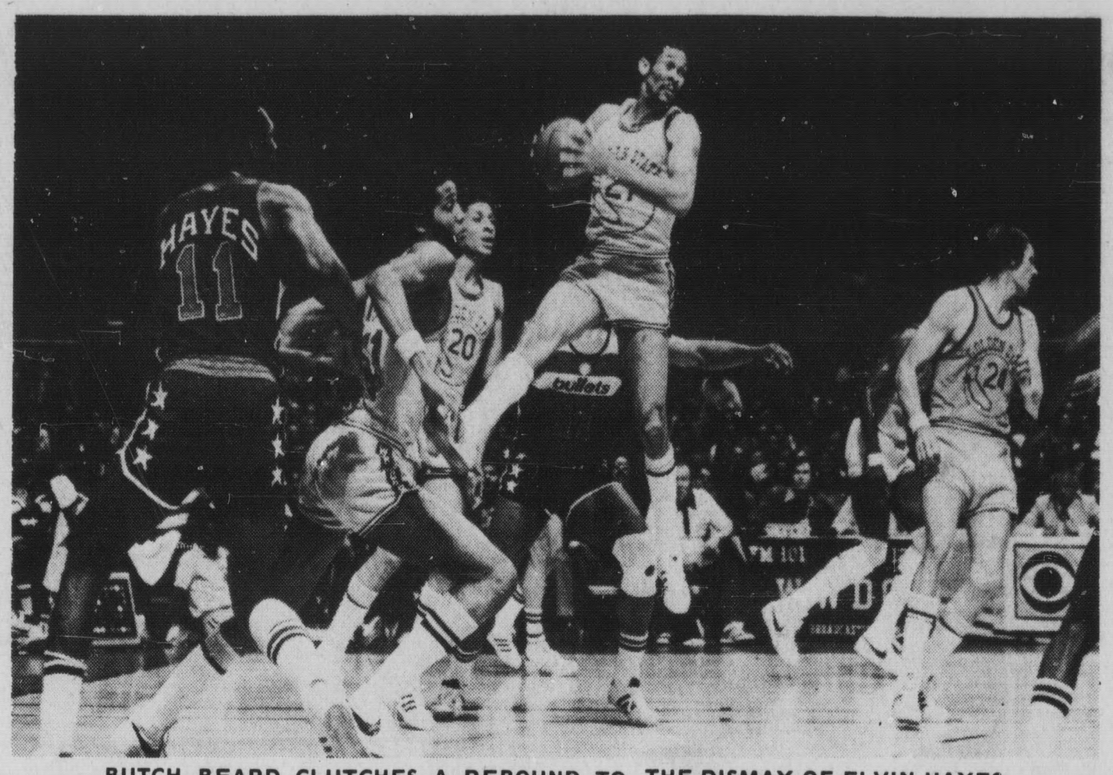

Friday morning Hayes had a chance meeting with three University of the Pacific co-eds, explored some San Francisco shops with them and parted, leaving them complimentary seats for the game.

Impressed by his personable nature, the ladies, one of whom claimed to have "been a Warrior fan all (her) life," switched their allegiance to the Bullets and just as quickly became embroiled in a half-joking insult marathon with a trio of Warrior fans seated behind them.

When it was over and the Bullets had been blown out, one of the UOP group wasn't laughing. Upset by the thought of the gentlemanly Hayes' season crumbling after a promising start and unable to make headway with the Palace guards, she tearfully dispatched two of her tormentors into the Bullets ammo dump with a message.

Given the note and told of her upset condition, Hayes, desite the down his own feelings had to be on, walked back to the court that had beef the scene of two disastrous Bullet losses and joined in mutual consolation with his woeful fan.

He is, as Bill King said later in reference to Golden State's incredible team spirit, "like something out of a children's sports book".

BUTCH BEARD CLUTCHES A REBOUND TO THE DISMAY OF ELVIN HAYES

Rod splits, SR $ shafted

San Ramon National Golf Club suffered one of its worst business weekends in memory over Memorial Day a voice on the clubhouse telephone said yesterday, adding that the situation was at least in part attributable to the departure of golf pro Rod Thompson.

"I tell you, right now it's dead in here," said an unnamed San Ramon employe who is collecting green fees in the abandoned pro shop. "I hope they do something in a hurry."

Thompson, teaching professional at San Ramon for nearly three years, quit the job last Friday night over a salary hassle.

He had reached an impass with club management over renewal of his contract. Since Thompson's departure, the clubhouse pro shop has been stripped of merchandise, and the golf course has been run without a head pro.

"Everything's in limbo," said the lonely fee collector yesterday . "There's nothing here, the place has been cleaned out. You can't even buy a golf ball."

Only a smattering of golfers had passed through the door by 11 a.m. yesterday, not unusual for a week day morning.

But the Memorial Day weekend was a washout.

"We usually do $1,400 a day on weekends," the employe said. "But last weekend I don't think we broke $1,000. Of course a lot of that was the holiday — people being out of town and all. You'd have to look over a long period of time to determine if Rod's leaving affected the play."

William Sanders, co-owner of the National Golf Club chain, was expected at the course yesterday to begin searching for Thompson's successor. Hope was expressed that San Ramon would have a new golf pro by the weekend.

Aquatics to play Thorpe

If you've seen "Jim Thorpe, All American," you'll remember how Burt Lancaster and a handful of Indians used to humiliate the country's major college track teams.

This weekend, the NorCal Aquatics Swim Club of Dublin will attempt that same kind of storybook play in Hawaii.

Coach Bill Radley is transporting eight swimmers to Honolulu today for the three-day Aloha Invitational Swim Meet at Kaimukai High School. Teams from all over the United States, and for that matter, all over Pacific Basin, will convene on Oahu. Some will be 30 to 40 strong.

Radley's mini-contingent is aiming for a finish among the top three clubs, however, when the competition climaxes Sunday.

"All eight swimmers will probably win their best events," Radley predicted yesterday "That's why they're going."

The Dublin team will challenge swimmers from Alabama, Virginia, Japan, Canada, and Guam, as well as host Hawaii.

The NorCal invasion may set back mainland relations with the island state 50 years.

Two of the club's top swimmers, Davitt Cunningham and Dana Davidson, were voted outstanding swimmers of 1974 in their age groups by the AAU's Pacific Association. The rest had to be content with a raft of Pacific Association and national age group records.

Cunningham, an eighth grader from Alamo, is expected to snowball the NorCal point total by competing in nine events. He will swim freestyle, butterfly, and his specialty, the backstroke.

"He should be in the top three in any event," Radley said; "but I don't think there's anybody in the country who can beat him in the backstroke. He was undefeated in the backstroke last year, and he ranked number one in the nation for the 50 back."

Cunningham won 28 of 29 events in inter-state competition last season, a good precedent as he heads for the Aloha State.

His teammate, Dana Davidson, established 10 national age group records last season in the under-10 division. She is nearing most of the 11-12 records right now, says her coach. The 200 and 400 free will be her feature events.

Dana's younger sister Vicki is counted on in the under-10 bracket, and she could replace her sister in the record book before the meet ends.

One of the keys to the NorCal finish will be the success of Radley's 400 free relay team. The group of Michele Aubuchon, Jan and Dana Davidson and Pat Price, is given a good chance of winning by Radley. His quartet placed seventh recently at the Santa Clara International Swim Meet with a time of 4:09.0. "At this time of the year it's an awfully strong time, even though this is a young group," Radley said.

Price, of Castro Valley, holds the 11-12 national record for the 500 free at 5:13.9.

Two other girls will compete for Radley this weekend, Linda Horner of Danville, and Alamo's Nancy Downs.

Most of the group has qualified for this year's Junior Olympics already, Radley says. That event will be staged at Ithaca, N.Y., in August. and the coach is predicting a championship for his team.

For the present, however, Radley is concerned with duplicating past performances in the Aloha Invitational. NorCal has finished third on two different occassions.

"Next year I'd like to bring 40 swimmers," Radley said. This year, he'd like to win with eight.

NCS top 'Dogs 1st in East Bay

DeVallon Harper boosted Alhambra High into the semi - final round of the North Coast Baseball Championships last Saturday and all the way to the top of the East Bay Baseball Poll this morning.

The 6-2, 195 right handed senior hurled a 4-1 victory against Redwood of Larkspur Saturday to give the Bulldogs the NCS Inland Valley title.

It was Alhambra's fourth victory in a week, and it jumped the team from fourth to first in the poll.

The Bulldogs defeated Livermore, 8-2, in the NCS opener Thursday. Despite that ball game, Livermore moved a notch from ninth to eighth in the poll. The Cowboys tied Berkeley for the eighth slot.

Alhambra will face Marina of San Leandro Friday in San Rafael for the right to play in the NCS championship Saturday night. Undoubtedly Harper will be on the mound.

DeVallon pitched a four-hitter with 10 strikeouts against Redwood. He also doubled home two runs in a three-run third inning rally.

He was named Contra Costa County's Prep of the Week for his performance.

Palo trims Eagles

Walter Hawkins' two-run home run was the key blow Monday as Palomart defeated the Eagles, 5-4, in Livermore National major league baseball.

Russell Porth and Jeff York also knocked in runs for the winners. York was the winning pitcher, throwing a four-hitter at the Eagles.

Tom Gemetti, Joe Hammeke and Bob Montano drove in runs for the losers. Frank Padilla played well in the field.

Emperor's Garden defeated Aircon on Saturday, 15-6. Jerry Bacon was the winning pitcher. Mike Funk drove in two runs for the losers.

Palomart outlasted C. Ridolfi Painting, 11-9. Porth homered and drove in four runs for the winners. York and Steve Lopez each had two RBI's Ridolfi's George Yawornisky homered and drove in six runs. Glenn Kersey tripled.

The Elks pushed across a sixth-inning run to clip Country Market, 7-6. Aaron Benedetti singled home Rich Criss with the winning run. Kevin Grijalva homered and doubled twice for the losers. He and Keith Grijalva combined for five RBI's.

LLRA bombed by Lox

Lox Equipment jumped away to a 5-0 lead after an inning, and coasted to a 13-4 Livermore American Little League win over LLRA Monday.

Les Jacob, who doubled and tripled, drove in four runs for the winners. Teammate Steve Kramer chased home three runs with three singles. Danny Thompson also knocked in a run.

Rick Yawornisky doubled home two runs for LLRA in the fourth inning.

Vito Ferruli and Rick Finkes combined for Lox to pitch a three-hitter.

In a Saturday senior league contest, Acme Trophy downed the A's, 12-9.

ON-THE-JOB INJURIES TREATED EFFECTIVELY

Dr. Hoffert of the Hoffert Chiropractic Offices has issued a strong appeal to job accident victims to make them aware of the importance of immediate chiropractic care for on-the-job injuries.

Chiropractic care for injuries that occur on the job is authorized under state compensation insurance. This recognition has come as a result of chiropractic's outstanding accomplishments in the care of this type of condition. If you should be injured on the job, check with your supervisor for chiropractic attention.

"Back injuries represent one-tenth of the total time loss injuries in American industry, and it is in this area that chiropractic has proven to be the most effective, the least expensive, and the fastest in getting the injured workingman back on the job," says Dr. Hoffert.

"There are many ways that the back can be injured on the job and there are many types of injuries that can occur. Modern scientific chiropractic procedures can reduce your suffering, your time loss and the possibility of permanent injury," adds Dr. Hoffert.

Dolstra slays the Giant

Ed Dolstra's five-hit pitching and a four-run uprising in the fourth inning swept John F. Bailey Enterprises to a 4-2 win over Value Giant in Livermore Babe Ruth baseball Monday.

Dolstra walked two and struck out four in going the distance. He also spanked out two base hits, along with Vince Brannan and Tom Favero. Favero doubled and tripled.

Don Aguiar doubled for Value Giant and had two hits.

LLLRA defeated the Elks, 5-1, shattering a 1-1 tie with four runs in the sixth inning. John Bachleda drove in four runs with a single and triple. Greg Palmer tripled home the final score. Bachleda picked up the pitching decision with a three-hitter. Mike Peila doubled home a run for the Elks.

Hobby Haven rolled over St. Michael's, 6-3, with the help of good fielding by shortstop Kevin Fitzpatrick and second baseman Greg Odell. Mark Davis tripled for the Haven, while Fitzpatrick and Rick Wood spanked doubles. St. Michael's Jeff Davidson homered against winning pitcher Mark Davis. Davis threw a seven-hitter.

The Elks clobbered Winchell's, 9-3, as shortstop Larry Dickinson shined in the field. Doug Novis and Mike Peila drove in runs for the winners. Rich Farfield of Winchell's had two RBI's. Tom Kramer pitched an excellent two-hitter to receive the victory.

Value Giant defeated Hobby Haven in a Saturday contest, 7-1. Jeff Bernacil had four RBI's in that game. Steve Waldera pitched a two-hitter with 12 strikeouts.

New from Philip Morris.

Saratoga 120's.

Enjoy smoking longer without smoking more.

That's the Saratoga idea.

More puffs than 100's.
Tailored longer and slimmer than 100's, so you enjoy extra smoking time, extra smoking pleasure, without smoking more cigarettes.

Priced no more than 100's.
And Saratoga 120's are rich, full-flavor cigarettes made from a fine blend of tobaccos.

More than just a new brand.
Saratoga 120's are a whole new idea in smoking pleasure.
Because now you can enjoy smoking longer without smoking more.
Look for them in the new 120 mm crush-proof box.

Menthol and Regular.

Standard 100's
